What can we offer?

Digital Magazines

We publish a monthly specialist digital magazine, with a new focus/topic for each month. These monthly magazines are published alongside our main digital issue, online guide and any online bespoke company magazines. In these digital magazines we publish adverts and editorial to promote your business, and if you are struggling to create your adverts, don't worry, our design team can do it for FREE!

Website

With news stories, product overviews, and educational information being uploaded weekly, the QA website is developing a strong reputation as a leading online publication in its own right. Every day we help our advertisers target decision-makers and key influencers in the purchasing of goods and services for schools. We offer various different options to advertise your business on our website, including press releases, online banners, pop-ups & thumbnails.

Newsletters

Sent out every month to our 17,000+ subscribers, our newsletter delivers key information and news as well as promoting our digital magazines directly to the inboxes of important figures in the education sector. It is yet another avenue of advertising which reaches a large audience instantly.

Email Marketing / Eshots

Now is your chance to take advantage of an unbeatable ROI through email marketing and make a lasting impression on the UK's ever-growing educational community. You can promote your business through exclusive solus emails for an even bigger impact. If you don't have the software or facilities to create your own eshot, don't worry we can do it for FREE for you. Give your brand the recognition it deserves with email marketing.

Social Media

With over 3,000 followers on Twitter, we have a wide reach on social media platforms, make sure to give us a follow!

What our customers say...

“

Groupcall have been advertising with QA Education for quite some time now. We have received some great responses from our front cover positions as well as our accompanying editorial or full pages within the publication. QA has a superb readership and the team are great!

“

We've found working with the QA Education team a pleasure. QA Education is one of the UK's essential guides for education decision-makers including headteachers, business managers and bursars and we have no hesitation in recommending it as a key title for the UK education sector. We've always found QA Education the perfect platform to get our brand and its news in front of education's key decision-makers. We'd recommend it to any organisation wanting to deliver profile in the education sector

“

Sunshade Services have been advertising with QA Education for over 3 years, both in the magazine and online. We have advertised with a variation of sizes and editorial pieces and have always received a very good response. From start to finish the service they offer is exemplary. Their sales staff are not only extremely knowledgeable, but are also extremely pleasant and approachable and are willing to help with any matter or concerns you may have. With their in-house design team they are able to offer you a complete design service which is carried out using your own logos, images and text, producing extremely professional advertisements. QA Education offer an extremely competitive service, they not only deliver on quality but price as well.
